

Arrival to Copenhagen airport (Kastrup)

Every 20 or 40 minute a train leaves the airport and goes to Lund (and further). These trains are called "Öresundståg" because the strait is called Öresund. When it happens to be 40 min between the trains to Lund then you will find a train that goes to Malmö in 20 min, because trains leave every 20 min for Malmö. In Malmö you can then change to a train to Lund. If you would like to phone your host when you have exited the customs at the airport, you can either use a credit card in a phone box there or your cell phone, but do not forget that you are in Denmark, which means that you have to dial 004646 + local number (if you phone from Malmö you dial 046 + local number).

The train ticket machines are situated at the far end of the exit/entrance hall in Cph, straight on, and use your card again. If you find it difficult to understand the machines anyone can help you. Almost everyone speaks English. Then you walk down the moving stairs on the west side, which is the side towards from where you came. On the other side trains go to Copenhagen center.

When you arrive to Lund you should normally exit on the eastern side of the station, which means to the right if you face the direction of the moving train. We also advice you to print this text!

Information in English about the trains from the airport is found at:

Arrival to Malmö airport (Sturup)

After you have collected your luggage, exit the airport building and go to the right where you will find the airport bus to Lund at the far end. If you intend to go to the Geology Department then you should get off at "Universitetssjukhuset" otherwise the best is probably at the end station at the railway station in the very center. You will find time tables for the airport coaches at:
